

INFORMATION FOR GUESTS ATTENDING

ACPOS SECRETARIAT OFFICE

26 HOLLAND STREET, GLASGOW, G2 4NH

Access

The General Secretariat office is accessed from Holland Street, Glasgow. The entrance doorway is identified from a distance by a large black canopy bearing the number 26 in white lettering.

Three steps lead down to the door which is controlled by an electronic entry system. A call button is located right of centre on the entry system.

Access arrangements for people with disabilities

Please inform secretariat staff of any arrangement which can be made to enable full access to the ACPOS office. Wheelchair access is available however it would be helpful if you could advise of this need in advance of attendance so that arrangements can be put in place.

Advance notice may be required if, for example, you require use of an induction loop, information in an alternative format or the seating/room layout has to be rearranged.

Travel

Train

Queen Street and Central stations are approximately 15 minutes walk from the ACPOS Secretariat office. Taxis are available at the stations.

Charing Cross station, which is a short walk from Holland Street, is a short additional low level train journey from Glasgow Queen Street (operated by SPT).

Bus

First Bus services 9 and 62 operate from Central Station (Hope Street at its junction with Gordon Street), along St Vincent Street, Glasgow, with a stop opposite the junction with Holland Street.

There is no convenient bus service from Glasgow Queen Street.

Car

It should be noted that Holland Street is a one way street. You can only approach the ACPOS office in Holland Street by descending the hill at the westerly end of West George Street (adjacent to Strathclyde Police Headquarters in Pitt Street) and turning left. Turning right is also a one way street (the opposite way)
